My Own.

The hand that I so fondly clasp
Within my own,
Must never have thrilled to any grasp,
Save mine alone.
The lips that mine so lightly press,
Must never know,
From other lips the soft caress,
That mine bestow.

The form that I with rapture fold
In twining arms,
Once circled by another's hold;
Would lose its charms.
If ever on another's breast,
Had lain thy head,
The glory of each golden tress
For me were fled.

The maiden blushes on thy cheek
That come and go,
And deepen when of love I speak
In whispers low,
If kindled by another's touch,
Or voice or eye;
Would lose the charm which now so much
I love and prize.

The heart that yields itself to me
And owns my power,
Until my coming let it be
A folded flower,
And in the love-light of my eyes,
Each leaf unclose,
To find itself, with sweet surprise,
A perfect rose.

Kissing A Jury.

"All" said the sub-sheriff, "the times have changed since I first new this place. It is just thirty-five years ago since I stopped here with a kished jury."

I was returning wet and weary after a day's rather unsuccessful trout fishing, when I met my friend, the sheriff, seated on his car was quickly accepted, and our passage through the little village of Foulkes' Mills, in the county of Wexford, caused the observation.

"A kished jury! what on earth is that," I exclaimed.

"Well you see, the old law was that in case that a jury would not agree, the assistant barrister, at sessions, or judges, at assizes, could order the jury to be taken to the next town in which the sessions were held, or to the confines of the county and there discharge them. The practice here was, I am not sure it was quite legal or not, to put the jurors into turt kishes or ereels, and discharge them by simply tilting the car up."

"But you don't mean to say such a thing was ever done in your life time?"

"I said I do. As I told you, it was the first year I filled the office of sheriff, thirty-five years ago. There was a trial for a riot at the Ross sessions, and as it all arose out of an election squabble, party feeling ran very high. As might be expected the jury disagreed, and old Moore, the assistant barrister, who thought the evidence quite strong enough against the prisoner, was almost beside himself with rage at the idea of his getting off. He went over the strong points in the evidence; he bullied them; but it was no use; they would not agree. He then locked them up all night; but in the morning they were no nearer a verdict. He then declared he would take them to Wexford that day, and ordered me to provide jaunting cars, and to produce the jury and prisoner before him that evening in Wexford."

"But here the jury made a row, they said they did not mind going to Wexford, but they did mind the form of law, and that as the old and legal way was to go in turt kishes or farmers' carts, they would go by no other conveyance. The foreman told the magistrate that if he was sent in any other way than in a kish he would bring action against them. When it came to this point I think Moore would have liked to be able to discharge them quietly, but as he had made the order he was too proud to alter it, so he told me to take them in kishes. Now of course I wasn't going to take a jury and prisoner twenty Irish miles through a wild country without a good escort, and as it happened that a troop of the Tenth Hussars was quartered in town, I ordered them out."

"The jurors objected to having more than two in each kish. The prisoner, he was Peter Murphy's father, and was one of the best-off men in Ross, and one of the great leaders of the repealers, brought his own gig, so we made a pretty fine show. First came the six country carts, each with a turt ereel containing two jurors, then came the prisoner and myself in the gig, the vehicles being surrounded by thirty or forty hussars with drawn swords, and followed by the greater part of the population of Ross, waving green boughs and yelling like so many wild indians.

"The journey was the greatest fun you can imagine. When we got rid of the crowd, several of the jury sang capital songs, and the foreman managed to pick up a wandering piper, who played jigs and hornpipes for some who danced. They did dance too, though they had only the floor of the car, for the kish prevented them from falling off."

"In this style and full of devilment we came into Foulkes' Mills here. We had sent on a messenger to order dinner at Mrs. Roche's, so we found everything ready for us. By this time I was in a funk about the state my jury would be in by the time they reached Wexford, for many of them were half drunk already."

"I insisted that each man should be limited to four tumblers of punch. They all promised readily enough, but I found when the four tumblers had been dispatched, that it did not prevent them from mixing the fifth, and I made up my mind that I would have a rasping fine inflicted on me by old Moore. Still the dinner was worth the price."

"Sir Charles Clifton, the captain of the hussars, took the chair, and the prisoner the vice, and well they filled them. Songs and stories never flagged, and six, the hour at which I had been ordered to produce the jury in Wexford, found them all very drunk; four of them were dancing a reel at the lower end of the room, while the foreman and one of the hussar officers whistled, and the captain and prisoner were playing beggar-my-neighbor at the other end to see who should pay for the dinner."

"At last I got them all on the road again, but it was two o'clock in the morning when we entered Wexford, and drew up before Moore's lodgings. The jurors were quiet enough now, as they were all drunk and asleep in the kishes. I backed the cars in a line opposite the door. The escort was drawn up behind, and the prisoner was carefully supported by two policemen, who happened to be patrolling. It was very dark and bitterly cold, so I hoped Moore might not see the state of the jury. I went up and knocked at his bed-room door in great trepidation."

"Who's there? What's all this row about?" roared he.

"It's me, your worship; I've brought the jury and prisoner."

"And what the deuce delayed you till this hour, sir?"

"Bad roads and the breaking down of the cars, your worship."

"You must keep them till morning. I can't get up now," he growled.

"Oh, your worship, I have no place to keep them. They are half dead already, with fatigue and want of food. If you detain them much longer something serious will happen."

"Just then I heard the prisoner making a desperate attempt to sing 'The Young May Moon,' but the police managed to stop him. After considerable delay, Moore made his appearance in his dressing-gown and slippers, and came grumbling down stairs to the door. The escort saluted and I hurried to the foreman's side."

"Do the jury answer to their names, sheriff?" said he peering into the darkness, and shivering as the frosty air played with the folds of his dressing-gown.

"Oh, yes, your worship," said I, holding down the foreman, who had awakened up, and wished to make a speech from the car.

"Well, gentlemen, have you agreed to your verdict?"

"The foreman says they can't agree, your worship."

"Why does he not speak out?" said Moore angrily.

"He has become hoarse from the cold," said I.

"I don't wonder; it has almost given me my death. Discharge the jury and prisoner too," said he, banging the door and rushing back to bed.

"The cars were tilted up and their burdens shot out into the street, and telling the police to look after them, I hurried off to bed. That was the last jury ever kished in this country."

Not many days ago a young lady from the country went into the store of a merchant and asked if he wished to purchase a couple of chickens, at the same time throwing a pair of live ones on the counter. "Why yes, but will they lay there?" said he, meaning would they remain there a few moments. "Lay there?" indignantly retorted the rustic beauty. "No sir, they won't lay no where's them's roosters?"

The Three Hunchbacks.

The following amusing and seemingly incredible narrative was extracted from a late French publication. It is neatly told and will be read with interest.

Three brothers, all humpbacked and all accurately alike in person lived in Besancon. One of them killed a man in chance medley, but not being taken on the moment, the prosecutors could only swear that one of the three brothers had done the deed. Rather than put an innocent man to death, the judge let the guilty one go but to avoid further inconvenience of the kind, he banished all from the province.

One settled in Paris, became rich, and married; the others, after nearly starving to death in England, returned and paid a visit to their fortunate brother.

The master of the house was abroad when they knocked; and the poor wife was troubled more than enough at the visit.

"My husband is very jealous," said she to them, while she was giving them something to eat. "You must go to the furthest quarter of the town, and never come here again; but I'll make your brother look to your wants."

While she was speaking she heard her husband knocking, and she cried out:

"Follow me if you value your lives."

She ordered the servant not to open the door till she should return, and then conveyed the brothers down the stairs and locked them in the cellar. Her husband scolded her for being kept out so long, but a good dinner restored him to good humor, and at night he went out to pay a visit.

The wife then went down to the cellar, and there found the two brothers dead, one lying here and the other there. What was to be done? She sent for a strong Auvergnat, brought him down stairs, showed him one corpse, which she had previously taken out of the cellar, and promised him a louis d'or on his return after having thrown it into the river Seine.

He made no scruple about the matter, but popped the body into a sack, took it to the river and shook it into the river.

Returning for his reward, the wife disputed his claim, as the body was still lying outside the cellar door. Here the stupefied man saw what he firmly believed to be the corpse he had thrown from the bridge, and resigning himself to destiny, he got his sack and went through the ceremony for the second time.

Coming back, he was terrified and enraged by finding the twice drowned corpse knocking at the door.

"Are these your tricks, master?" said he; "All Monsieur Ghost! Clever as you are, I'll settle you the third time."

So saying, he forced the poor husband into the sack, carried him to the same spot and effected the same discharge. This time he returned in triumph, for the wife, ignorant of her husband's fate, and having no more corpses to remove, paid him twice what she had covenanted, and gave him a glass of water into the bargain.

"Your good health, madame, said he; you are better than your promises; but I earned it. I found the humpbacked rogue, or his ghost, knocking at the door, after I had thrown him in the second time."

"Oh, wretch! you have drowned my husband," cried she.

The Turnpike Tax.

On the first Monday in August, the people of this county voted down the proposition to levy a tax on the property holders for the purpose of constructing pikes in different portions of the county. From the official record we have observed, with much surprise, that the proposition was lost the votes of men living, for the most part, remote from the pikes already constructed. Those living contiguous to turn-pikes very generally voted in favor of the levying of a tax. This is surprising. We had believed that the men who are without the advantages a pike affords, would have been the first to cast their votes in favor of a proposition that would have secured for them good roads to their county-seat; and if any objection to such an appropriation were urged, it would have come from those who are already enjoying the benefits of pikes. Why a poor man living remote from any pike, who would have had no tax to pay even if the proposition had been sustained, should cast his vote against a tax of this kind, surpasses our comprehension. But in Kentucky, every man has the right, once more, to vote as he pleases, and we have no right to complain. But we will take the liberty of saying that these men, in our judgement, voted against their most palpable interests, when they defeated a proposition which would have enabled them to construct good roads in the place of the continued series of mud holes through which they are obliged to trudge during a portion of the year.

Besides, the tax which was proposed to be levied on the taxable property of the county for building such roads, was so insignificant, that when compared with the advantages to be derived from a turn-pike, the objections urged against it possess no force entitled to any serious consideration. The act empowering the County court to make appropriations for building turn-pikes provided that the "Moore Fund," which is now lying idle, might be borrowed, and interest, at the rate of 6 per cent. per annum, be paid thereon by the county. This fund is about $15,000; the interest, therefore, would be $1,080, per annum, which is the amount for which the county would have been taxed.

The county court, we presume, expends more than that amount in repairing the public roads throughout the county. These dirt roads are constantly in need of fresh repairs. Turn-pikes when once thoroughly completed, insure good permanent roads, and generally produce a dividend. A turnpike in Harrison county will guarantee an income sufficiently large to satisfy the interest on $750 to every mile appropriated. The tax would have been withdrawn as soon as any pike so constructed would have become self-supporting.

The interest accruing from this borrowed fund would have been appropriated, according to the will of the late Mr. Moore, toward the education of the indigent orphans of the county.

We would like to see another effort made in behalf of this scheme, and we believe with the proper exertions, such as the importance of the subject demands, the proposition would be favorably entertained and carried by a large majority of the voters of the county.

We have returns sufficient to indicate that the next Legislature will stand about thus:

SENATE.	HOUSE.
Democrats, 25	Democrats, 85
Radicals, 9	Radicals, 11
Third Party, 4	Third Party, 4
	Of the Senators, 17 held over, of whom 7 were Democrats, 6 Radicals and 4 Third Party. Of the Senators just elected by the people, 28 were Democrats and 3 Radicals.—Lou. Cou.

Last Sunday was a quiet day. The saloons were closed and no business was transacted. Six days are set apart by our Creator for labor, and on the seventh man should rest. This is also a law of the State, and should be observed. Some dissatisfaction exists with a few of our good people, because the city council has seen fit to prohibit the sale of ardent spirits on Sunday, and quite a number seem displeased with the editor of the "News," for having recommended "sober Sunday's" in place of "drunken ones." From the discourses which we have heard, we are led to the conclusion that we are held responsible for the enactments of the city council—that a prohibiting law would never have been passed had we left the subject undisturbed. We feel perfectly competent to stand up under all the anathemas which may be hurled against us, for this violation of public propriety. And furthermore, we hope to see the Sabbath respected. In this matter, we have no petty spite or ill-feeling toward any individual. The Christian world has had an experience of eighteen hundred years to prove that an observance of the Sabbath gives wealth, health and wisdom, and it will become a few people in Cynthiana, to violate a law which is so strictly observed by Christendom, and of such long standing. Because a man pays a license to sell whisky, is no reason that he is better than his fellow-citizens. We are not permitted to carry on the printing business on the Sabbath, nor are our grocery and dry-goods merchants permitted to sell their sundries on the Sabbath. It is a violation of law to do so. Then, if men in the common walks of life are prohibited from transacting business on the Sabbath, every man should be treated alike and all be compelled to close up, according to law. Besides that it is not Democratic to give a privilege to one man that could not be given to another, and if upon no other ground, we would oppose a violation of the Sabbath on that point.

The great difficulty lies in the fact that men make God's of their stomachs, and must feed that morbid desire for whisky, if the heavens fall. They pander to their appetites for drink until they are bloated, besotted and pickled. In this condition, what wonder is it if they have no respect for their Creator on the Sabbath. They lose all pride and self-respect, they hate themselves and believe that all the people of the world hate them, they are full of self-condemnation, conscience-smitten, and woe-begone, and many of them won't let their poor bodies rest on the Sabbath. All we propose is that after firing up all the week with strong drink, that the stomach should be permitted to cool off on the Sabbath. It shall be so, or the whisky must be purchased by the quart on Saturday night for a Sunday drunk.

REDUCTION IN FARE.—The Erie Railway Company is now issuing first-class tickets at the following rates: Dunkirk to New York, 460, 8 dollars; Buffalo to New York, 423 miles, six dollars and 75 cents; Salamanca to New York, 415 miles, 7 dollars and 25 cents. By this arrangement, passengers for New York, Boston and New England cities, can effect a great saving in purchasing their tickets to Dunkirk, Buffalo, or Salamanca, and from thence to New York at the Erie Railway company's offices, which are always open on the arrival of the trains of all Western and Southern trains. The line of the Erie Railway passes through the most picturesque and romantic portions of the States of New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey, and its passenger equipments are generally considered superior to that of any other road. The employees of the line are attentive and courteous, and render passengers all the assistance desired. If you would enjoy a journey of several hundred miles without charge of cars, and at less expense than by any other route, take the Erie Railway when going to New York or New England.

With reference to making application for the benefit of the bankruptcy law, individuals who expect to go into bankruptcy must make application within one year after the act became a law. If not within that time its benefits cannot be secured unless the estate of the applicant can pay 50 cents on the dollar.

The Observer & Reporter says of Dr. Hughes, who was murdered recently:

We know Dr. Hughes well when he was Brigade Surgeon of that Kentucky Brigade of Cavalry in the Confederate Army known first as "Grigsby's Kentucky Brigade," and afterwards as "Williams' Kentucky Brigade." He had many lofty qualities. There never lived a kinder heart, a more fearless soul, a more devoted man. His faults were those of an impulsive and somewhat thoughtless nature. His virtues were high and attractive. We presume he must have been about forty-eight years of age. He died childless, leaving a widow, whose grief is made more poignant by memories of unchanging love and kindness. Many brave men, who faced death with unshrinking eye, will learn of his death with sincere sorrow.

The Statesman published an article almost conservative in its tone, exhibiting the impulse of a good citizen to bow to the verdict of the people. It surprised us greatly, and we waited to see if it would last. It was only temporary sanity. Yesterday's issue is full of bitterness toward the Democracy and the State, and agonizing pleading with the Northern Radicals to reconstruct Kentucky; that is, enfranchise the negroes, disfranchise the anti-Radical whites, give the State over to the Statesman and its tribe—making powerful if not respectable the men, who fattened upon the spoilation of Kentucky.—Obs. & Rep.

An order for the removal of Gen. Sheridan has been issued by President Johnson. We understand that Gen. Thomas will take his place. An attempt will be made to make a martyr of King Phillip, but his acts of tyranny have already outraged the feelings of many republicans, and they find him qualified for nothing, unless it is for house and barn burning and desolating a fruitful and wealthy country. Let him go West and fight Indians.

We learn from the Carlisle Mercury that the election in the new county of Robertson, has turned out to be illegal, because the judges failed to be sworn in. This is certainly a unwarrantable oversight. It could not have been done for fraudulent motives, because we have no idea that there is an office in the county that would be worth a bad act.

Helm received 621 votes Kinkadee 12, Barnes 90. Hardings majority for county judge was 360. J. F. Martin's vote has not been reported.

The following, from the latest authority, it may be of interest:

"A plain card denotes a passing call; the lower right hand corner turned down, a visit; left hand lower corner, condolence; right hand upper corner, business; left hand upper corner, adieu."

COVINGTON MARKETS.

CATTLE.—Market quiet, and prices about the same as last week. The receipts since our last have amounted to 478 head, 643 of which were shipped East and North, and the remainder sold here at the following prices: First quality, $6 75 @ 7 per 100 lbs; second quality, $6 @ 6 25; third quality, $4 @ 5 25. Extra quality, and those suitable for shipping, sell at $8 @ 8 25.

COWS AND CALVES.—Milch cows are scarce, and sell readily at $75 @ 85 per head, according to quality. We quote calves at $8 @ 10c. per pound.

SHEEP AND LAMBS.—The receipts during the past week amounted to 1,405 head, 600 of which were sold at $3 @ 4 50 per 100 lbs. for sheep, and $2 @ 2 50 per head for lambs. Extra fine sheep would, perhaps, command $5 50.

HOGS.—The market has been quite dull during the past week, and sales difficult to effect. The receipts since our last report have amounted to 390 head, 557 head of which were taken by shippers, 230 by butchers, and 149 left over. Prices have ranged from 5 to 6 dollars per 100 lbs. gross, the large majority bringing 5 50.

POLANDS

MAGIC BILIOUS

POWDERS!!!

THIS PREPARATION IS THE DISCOVERY of the Rev. J. W. Poland, formerly pastor of the Baptist Church in Goffstown, N. H., and a man deeply beloved by that denomination through his New England. He was obliged to leave the pulpit and study medicine to save his own life, and his Magic Bilious Powders are one of the most wonderful discoveries of modern times. It is the great Liver and Bilious remedy, which completely throws in the shade all other discoveries in medicine; and it affords him the unanimous approbation of all who have tested them. The Magic Bilious Powders are a positive cure for Liver Complaint, in its most aggravated form, and an immediate corrector of all Bilious Derangements. Excellent for headache, constipation, pimples, blotches, a sallow skin, drowsiness, dizziness, heartburn, palpitation and a most wonderful cure and preventive for Fever and Ague. [We advise all who are troubled with this fearful malady to always keep the Powders on hand for immediate use.]

Here are a few important particulars: 1st.—They are the Great Specific for all Bilious Affections.

2nd.—They are the only known remedy that will cure Liver Complaint.

BLUE GRASS FARM

FOR SALE.

THE Farm on which I now reside is for sale. It is situated four miles south of Cynthiana, half a mile from Fair's Station, on the K. C. & E. R. at which point there is a post office, express office, depot, saw mill and two excellent grist mills that manufacture the best quality of flour and meal. It is within 24 hours ride of Cincinnati and 1 1/2 of Lexington. It contains about 175 acres, one hundred acres well timbered. The remainder cleared and in the highest state of cultivation. The fencing all in good order. The improvements consist of a comfortable dwelling, partly frame and partly log, containing six rooms, cook-house and all necessary out buildings, including two large stables, (with lots for feed) a large enough to house and feed 50 mules at a time which can be done without going out of doors, as there is large wide feed rooms extending the whole length of the stables, in which there is a cutting box run by horse power, with capacity and strength enough to cut a large quantity of hay in a short time. There is also a young orchard of select fruit of various kind now bearing. The farm is supplied with abundance of pure water for all purposes, as there is upon it a number of never failing springs (some of them near the dwelling) and South Licking which runs along one side of it. Any one wishing to purchase such a farm, would do well to call and examine for themselves, as the place will be sold for a reasonable price, the payments made easy, and if desired a part of the money can be run a considerable length of time at moderate interest.

Also desire to sell 400 acres of land which lies in Lewis county, Missouri. Said land is situated about 12 miles from Palmira on the road leading from there to Monticello, and about 10 miles from the Mississippi river, about one half of it timbered land, the timber excellent, the balance prairie of good quality, a little rolling and dry, is in a good neighborhood, and is surrounded by old settlers and highly improved farms. There is a large handsome brick church and school house in sight of the land. Also, a small village and post office near by. Price reasonable, payments easy and made to suit the ability and convenience of purchasers. For further particulars call on

Mr. Lewis Krueh purchased from Robt. Jones, the property known as Jones' Row for $1,320.

It is said that a brewery is about to be established in this city for the manufacture of beer.

Mr. Eckler purchased a building lot from J. J. Parish, last week, for which he paid 1,950 dollars.

Zed Offutt, of Centerville, was severely wounded in the left shoulder in a difficulty, in Richmond, last week.

The attention of our readers is directed to the card of W. W. Kimbrough, Esq., who will attend to all legal business for litigants, in this and the surrounding counties. He is an attentive business man.

We have been receiving the Flemingsburg Democrat in place of the Flemingsburg Dispatch. The Democrat is edited by Messrs. Welsh & Cox, and is one among the liveliest sheets that we have the pleasure of reading. We wish them much success.

Squire Webb, our worthy jailor is an eccentric. The other day he was appointed assistant marshal, and while sauntering down street run on a fellow lying in the road perfectly insensible with liquor. The Squire took hold of the man and raising him up said: "see here stranger, you must actually get up and go to jail for you must not actually lay here."

The County Court is entitled to our thanks for painting the Court-house. It presents a fair appearance. Let us suggest that the inside is entitled to similar treatment, and if it is thought proper to listen to us in this particular, then we shall feel like returning them thanks again.

The building committee of the Christian Church of this city, purchased from Wm. Thompson, last Tuesday, a piece of ground, containing about three-quarters of an acre, for two thousand dollars. Mr. Thompson subscribed one hundred dollars. The ground is known as the old tan yard.

Last Monday evening the good people of this region, received, with joy, a refreshing shower. We might say that it was a rain of several hours duration. It was cooling, healing and drawing. It cooled the atmosphere, it healed up the wounded hearts of our friends, whose corns were perishing with heat, and will draw many greenbacks into the pockets of our subscribers, and it is hoped will put a few in ours.

A Promise.—We saw last week a remarkable child, a little boy, belonging to Mrs. Alec Garnett, living near Mt. Olivet, Robertson county. The infant is only three months old, in good health, and weighs 35 pounds; 2 feet 3 inches around the waist, 11 inches round the wrist, 11 inches round the arm and 13 inches round the ankle. This is the largest child, considering the age, we have ever known. His mother says she is raising him for the next war. But he will have to grow fast to get in time, in our opinion. Robertson has but recently entered her name as one of our sister counties, and if this solid little fellow is a fair specimen of her rising generation, she has cause to congratulate herself. Such men as this young chap is going to make one day, will never be compelled "to yield to superior force."

The common council have closed up all the drinking saloons and hotel bars, on the Sabbath. We doubt their right to close a hotel bar. They are a State affair, and claim protection under a State license. Our council should know and understand all the powers and rights of which they are possessed, and never go beyond the bounds of duty. Landlords say that the bar is a part of the hotel, and that to close a portion closes all, and that if they are prohibited from giving drink they are also prohibited from furnishing something to eat on the Sabbath. They may be right, but we do not believe the position is tenable.

We understand that the Democratic majority for Helm in the State as far as heard from, has reached the glorious number of fifty-three thousand and continually increasing.

The young ladies of Cynthiana have taken the Monumental Association in hand. That is to say they are about to give them a helping hand. In this life they are calculated for helpmates, and in giving assistance and countenance to this association they are only working out their destiny.

History gives no account of any enterprise of interest that was successful, without aid from women, the greatest and best gift of God to man. Her smiling countenance gives encouragement to every good work, and her diplomacy and caution gives dignity and success. The help which our fair ladies are bestowing on the Monumental Association, is praiseworthy. They are preparing to give an entertainment during the Fair, in the shape of a Tableau; and last week we attended one of their rehearsals, given at the residence of Mr. Houk. It was an entertainment of the best kind, instructive and amusing, where in many historical reminiscences are pictured in life style and in unison with the times. We were much amused with the tableaux of "John Anderson my Jo," showing his appearance when he had nearly arrived at the foot of life's hill. Let the public be assured that the young ladies of Cynthiana intend to give one of the grandest exhibitions during the Fair in Tableaux, that their eyes have had the pleasure of beholding in Kentucky, or elsewhere.

Last Monday, August 12th, Geo. Albright, a son of Jacob Albright, of the Cason precinct was killed, and his body was not found until Wednesday. It seems that Albright and some other men, who were with him, had followed off some low women, and that a quarrel sprung up among them which resulted in the killing of Albright. An inquest was held by H. Rowland, coroner of Harrison county and the following verdict filed in the Circuit Court Clerk's office:

The jury being duly sworn, proceeded to enquire how or by whom, or in what manner Geo. Albright came to his death. It was found after examination, that he was shot in the back about opposite the heart, with a ball from a rifle or navy pistol, and by some unknown person or persons. The only evidence I had was Mrs. Mary McClure, stated upon oath that on Monday evening, the 12th of August, she heard a gun or pistol fire about 8 or 9 o'clock at night, down in the woods where the said Albright was found lying dead.

H. ROWLAND, C. H. C.

Garrett, Spears & Co., Paris, Ky., have on hand a splendid assortment of dry goods. It is said that their taste in purchasing is not excelled by any merchants in the West. A full and complete stock of carpets, cotton and linen goods, together with every variety of ladies' and gentlemen's dress goods. Their house is situated on Main street, nearly opposite the Court-house. Their goods will be sold at prices to suit the times, and purchasers must not go to the river cities to find bargains, for this is a cheap house. Polite and attentive clerks always ready to show and sell goods, and among them is our good looking friend, C. H. Garrett.

For the Cynthiana News.

A Parody on Anne of the Vale.

I am alone in my shanty,
My rations are scanty,
For "tates" are now the order of the day.
This old cuss is sighing,
For all his corn is drying,
And wonders if another crop would pay.
Chorus.—Come, come, come rain, come,
Come flow to the top of my boots.
Come in thy power and beauty,
I hold it a duty,
To make the corn tassel silk and shoot.
The young moon is peeping,
And over the hill is creeping,
While Bureau nigs have gone to make a raise,
The crowing of the Shanghai,
Tells them the day is close by,
And also that this cruel drought is no pay.
Chorus.—
My dog Dash is growling,
The Bureau nigs are prowling,
Around my house to steal my chickens away.
While with pistol in hand at window,
Doth then a little hinder,
Saying "boys you had better go away."
Chorus.—
You may talk about your Annie,
But give me some "mamie,"
Some biscuit nicely buttered over too,
Some hot smoking Java,
How it makes my mouth saliva,
I wish I had some in me now don't you?
Chorus.—

MARRIED.

DIED.
At his residence in this city, on Tuesday, 13th inst., after a lingering illness, Dr. R. J. Dabney, aged 40 years.
